DECLARED INSANE.

C. E. Johnson's Examination by a Sheriff's Jury.

WIFE'S . TESTIMONY.

Medical Experts on the Phases of Epileptic Mania.

ohnson, at her lather's residence, in Brooklyn, on no 26th of December last, is still fresh in the public mind. The youth of the parties, who had been mur-ried only about a year at the time, and their high ohuson, one of the proprietors of the Broadway and induson avenue stage line, and the wife the daughter i Roswell S. Benedici, a wealthy retired merchant ving in Brooklyn, gave to the case more than usual interest. No reasonable excuse could be found for such a rashry murderous assault, except that the husband was of uncound mind. This theory was directly started, and it soon took confirmation in the confine-ment of young Johnson in the Bloomingdale Lunatio Asylum. The next step was to have such alleged lunacy judicially settled, and if the theory could not be sustained to place the young man on trial for his be austained to place the young man on trial for his helinous crime. As a preliminary proceeding Judge Dononue recently appointed Issac Dayton, Dr. William C. Hunter and Bernard Smith commissioners to investigate the case, the examination, as usual in Buch cases, to be conducted before a shortiff's jury. Pursuant to this appointment the commissioners entered upon their investigation at four P. M. yester-Mrs. Johnson, accompanied by her father, was present, as also the inther of Mr. Johnson, Young Johnson, during most of the time, sat in an adjoining room, in company of an attendant. A portion of the time his wife sat with him, but her efforts to entice him into conversation were enavailing. He sat with downcast eyes, were a gloomy, morose expression, and allogether seemed a picture of abject metancholy. The proceedings in court were conducted by District Attorney Britton, of THE OPENING STATEMENT.

Mr. Britten made an opening statement of the case, giving an epitemized sketch of young Johnson's sareer up to the present time. He said that at first he plving an epitomized sketch of young Johnson's tarcer up to the present time. He sud that at first he was a promising boy, but that at an early age he syinged sommambalistic tendencies and at night would get up from hed and roam around the house, and in the morsing would be wholly unconscious of it. When an infant he was bendstroug, but after that he lost health, and before his marriage was in constant care of a physician. These symptoms were not the results of intemporance, and his parents did not knew that he ever drank liquor. He was kind and affectionate in disposition, was a constant attendant at Sunday School and nad no "inst" habits. At the age of puberty he had a nervous difficulty. Two years age he became attached to an interesting and pleasant young lady, and after a family consultation married her, against the remonstrance of his physician. Soon after his parents noticed that his affection for them was less-saing and that he had inexpinable outbursts of anger and moroscoess. He was attached to his wite, but even two weeks after their marriage he would burst into fits of plassion against her. Once, for instance, he etiggested that he was crazy, but the father shrunk from accepting the fact. Mr. Johnson would go down to the pasement and cry without cause. He struck his wite in the face and threatened to shoot her. Finally she became afarmed and went, with her child, for protection to her lather's house to Brooklyn. The his-bund followed her there and abused her. She sought to fly and he shot her. She locked herself into a room, and, finding he could not get in, he went from accepting the fact. Mr. Johnson would go down to the pasement and expertised with the child, for protection to her lather's house to Brooklyn. The his-bund tollowed her there are abused her. She sought to fly and he shot her. She locked herself into a room, and, finding he could not get in, he went form a normalizated with. For some time he had done any more than when he struck her, which he had been temporate and even remonatrated was a promising boy, but that at an early age he

The young wife was next called to the witness stand. She was dressed in plant black, and it was such difficulty she could be induced to talk loud enough to be neared by the jury. She told over in detait the story as published in the Haralto following the attempt on her life. She said she that the story as published with her husband about five years ago; that the acquaintance ripened into strong mutual affection, and that they are an object better that they have a seen that they have a seen that they have a seen that they are married his her nusband sreated her with almost uniform kindners, except when an occasional outbursts of passion he would awar at her. She reclied various insuances of his flying into a passion without any cause for it. On such occasions he would use profance angagage and call her oddon hands and strike her, and when remonstrated with alterward he had no recollection of it. She added that after his passionate substress he was kind and foring and seemed to have substress he was kind and foring and seemed to have substress he was kind and foring and seemed to have substress he was kind and foring and seemed to have substress he was kind and foring and seemed to her. She field of his getting up one night after going to bed and starting to leave the house, when the bed and starting to leave the house, when the same and him to come back, upon which he threatened to shoot her. She said she would often find him in his room talking to nimsell and wiley gesticulating, and that string had nappened out of the usual way. At times he would lake his revolver out of the bureau drawer, but he never evinced any inclination to shoot her. Occasionally at night he would complain of a severe pain on the for swall, and his face, uniformly row, was pale, and his his received complain of a severe pain on the for her sonijalists to his father and her tather of his harshes, and his hair seemed lighter than at other nimes. Sho howed complain of a severe pain on the foreign to he fathered to with deep attention. She h inch the shooting, but that he had no reconcented of going to her lather's house on the day of the shooting.

Astraxge visitor.

Mr. George Shepherd, a partner of Mr. Johnson, Sr., who was next examined, stated that he had known young Johnson from the time of his birth; that he never considered him very bright, and that he showed no aptitude for business; he gave him credit, however, for always being temperate, and never to me knowing using profuse language. He atsteatish is new summers ago, being out of health, young Johnson was sent to the house of Mr. Lookwood at Loogradge, Corn., to spend a few weeks, hoping to benefit his health. After the first inight Johnson began to got up in the night and roam about the nouse in a manner that was at once inexpinciale and alarming. They fleatly looked him securely in his room, after which he could be neared walking for hours, and always when spoken to about his strange conduct had no recollection of it.

The father-N-Law's STATEMENT.

Mr. Benedict remiel now his daughter complained of her anabusand's unkind irrationen of her, and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his lather about the matter and how he talked with his profuse, he was not in his registed by a persionan. He told of the anothing after at his house, and said that when young Johnson called he let him in, and noticed at the time a strangely wild expression in his eyes auch as he had never seen before.

The MROCAL TRETIRONY.

Dr. Jamos W. Ranney lettined that on the 20th of lest Jacouary, at the request of Johnson's tather, he, together with his brother, Dr. E. W. Kasney and Dr. Drake, made an examination of him at the Bloomi the witness stand, and, scating himself, bowed his head as if really oblivious of his surroundings or the purpose for which he had been called. No attempt was made to swear nim.

"How old are you?" asked Mr. Britton.

"Young Johnson bowed his head still lower, and after waiting some two minutes Mr. Britton repeated the question in a very loud key.

"Twenty," answered Johnson, raising his head a trifle and railing up his eyes.

A like passe of july three minutes followed this question, and sgain the question was repeated in a loud tone.

"Yes," answered Johnson, raising his head slightly, as bofore.

"Yes," answered Johnson, rsising his head slightly, as before.
"It think his examination has proceeded far enough," said Mr. Britton. The Commissioner and the jurors expressed a like yiew, and with this terminated the evidence in the case.

PROSOUNCED INSEAM.

Commissioner Dayton addressed the jury simply on the character of the evidence, and all others having been requested to leave the room, the case was let in the lands of the jury. They took but a brief time to deliberate. Their verdict was that Johnson has been insane for the past twelve months and that he is incapable of taking care of himself and property. The result of this vernet is the further confinement of young Johnson in the Lanatic Asylum and the appointment of a committee of his person and estate, the value of the latter, real and personal, being stated at $27,000.

THE COURTS.

LENGTHY TRIAL TO SETTLE A CHARGE OF

was then known as the Fuller Cigar Company, doing business at Joliet, 1th., brought suit in 1871 in this county against J. D. Hunt, A. Richardson, Honry B. Bunster and William A. Robinson, charging that the defendants had conspired together by representing Mr. Richardson, the other defendant, as A. Richardson, of Boston, wealthy other defendant, as A. Richardson, of Boston, wealthy and a brewer, to detraud the plantiffs out of the value of about 600,000 eigars, amounting to about 513,000. The defendants were arrested; but the Comit, on motion, set aside the orders and vacated the arrests. The action was brought to trule to 188 in the Supreme Court before Judge Lawrence, who dismissed the complaint and gave judgment for the defendants. An appeal was taken by he piaintiffs to the Gazeral Term, and it was there decided that the case should have been allowed to go to the jury, and for that reason a new trial was ordered. The second trial of the case was commenced in Farz 2 of the Supreme Court, before Judge Barrett and a jüry, about two weeks ago and was continued until yesterday morning, when the jury brought in a verdict. The lour defendants were represented by different counsel, and each presented a separate and distinct defence. The evidence given on the trial was to the effect that Hunt, who was the agent of the Fuller Cigar Company, sold to Richardson, who afterward sold to Bunster, 600,000 cigars on Richardson's acceptances of sixty and ninety days, which draits were never paid. The plaintiff awars that Hunt represented to him that Richardson was a Boston brower, having an office at No. 10 Bardley street in this city, and perfectly good for any amount, when in fact he was worth nothing whatever, and was a man of no business reputation er standing, and that the cigars sold to him were hurriedly disposed of to Bunster for less than cost. Hunt testified that he was told by a man on the street in this city for the purchase of cigar, and was a good for all that could be sold him, and that, soling upon information and believing he was the Boston brower, he sold him and that soling upon information and believing he was the Boston brower, he sold him and that work had been to different with Fuller taking he was the Boston brower, he sold him and that we have a commission on all cigars sold in New York, and with no intention of misleading th and a brewer, to defræd the plaintiffs out of the value of about 600,000 cigars, amounting to about

On June 22, 1872, as Dr. Alexander B. Mott, with his conchman, was driving on Fourth avenue, near Kighlee Company, being rapidly driven, strack against the forward wheel of the Doctor's against the forward wheel of the Decter's carriage, breaking it, throwing the Decter out and injuring him. Dr. Mett, through his autoravys, Mesers. Hatch & Van Alien, brought suit in the Court of Common Pleas against the company for disinger. The cause came on for frail before Judge Robinson and a jury on March 14, 1877, when plant-iff proved special damages resulting from the injuries caused by the accident. On the third day of the trial, when plaint-iff rested his case, Mr. A. P. Whitehead, of courself for the defendant, made a motion to dismiss the complaint, upon the ground, as he stated, that the the testimon's showed the driver's act to be wilful, and hence that the company was not liable. Plantiff's coursel prested that though the act was wilful, and hence that the company was not liable. Plaintiff's counsel insisted that though the act was wilful, yet the company was liable, and that the question should be submitted to the jury. The Court, however, granted the motion, dismissing the ompaint. As appeal was taken from the judgment entered upon that decision and affirmed by the General Term. Plaintif's counsel then appealed from the judgment of affirmance to the Court of Appeals, which Court, in a very elaborate opinion by Judge Allen, has just reversed the judgment below.

two children, Alexander and Nina, aged respectively nine and eleven years old, restored to him. It will be nine and cleven years old, restored to him. It will be remembered that the children were given in charge of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The lather, through his connect, Messrs. George L. Simonson and William F.-Knutzing, sood out a writ of babeus corpus to the Supreme Court, and pending the decision of Judge Donohus the children were restored to him, but with the stipnization that he is not to take them with him on begging expeditions bereatter.

The application for a mandamus in the case of William Proce and Joseph Fout, convicted of murder in the second degree and scatteneed to State Prison for life, came up before Judge Donohus in Supreme Court. Chambers, yesterday, Mr. William F. Howe appeared as counsel for the prisoners, and missed that the Court of General Sessions should settle the bit of exceptions, so that this case and those of Richard Lo, an and William Briggs, in which the same point was involved, might be argued before the present General Term. It was claimed by Mr. Leary, Assistant District Attorney, that the case should have been sattled within ten days after the conviction. The Court took the papers and reserved its decision.

PETER COOPER'S CASE.

The suit of Wallace P. Groom against Peter Cooper for libel, which occupied the attention of the Su-preme Court, Kings county, Judge Pract presiding, for three days, resulted in a designeement of the jury. The jury were out from five o'clock on Friday vening until fine A. M. yesterday, when they came into Court, and being unable to arree, as stored, were ducharged. It was stated subsequently that they stood eight for toe plaintiff for $500 damages and four for the defendant.

THE COURSE OF TRUE LOVE.

Henry Reymond a few years ago resigned his posttion on the Metropolitan Police force in order to marry a weatthy fluriem widow some years his senior, who promised to set him up in business. After the honeymoon Mrs. Reymond purchased the stock and fixtures of a saloon at No. 2,169 that avenue, and sixtures of a saloon at No. 2,169 that avenue, and sixtures of a saloon at No. 2,169 that avenue, and sixtures of a saloon at No. 2,169 that avenue, and sixtures of a saloon that the continue of the lower in the supposed, much flattered at his wife confinence. For a time all went well, son Mr. Revenodi finally reached the conclusion that the course of the lower in one instance at least did fin smooth. But after a white a cloud appeared on the horizon, and, though small of first, great and the foresteed until finally it assumed Tass proportions. Lattle backerings led to serious quarrens, and matters finally reached a clamax a tew highle ago. Mr. Res more on reaching home latter to fina supper trany, and an asking for a reason left a loss of stale broad strike against his left war. This arroused his wrath, and according to his wife's arony, he had been at the floor and administered a most vagerous characters. An entire the first properties of the first properties. A first hearing both sides Judge Wheeler paroled Reymond and, adjourned the examination in order to secure the attendance of many witnesses.

ADJUDGED A LUNATIC.

The commissioners appointed by the Suprem Court, Kings county, to take testimony before a Sheriff's jury in the matter of the alleged lunacy of Matilds Lane, met yesterday at the Court House, Brook tilda Lane, met yesterday at the Court House, Brocklyn. Mrs. Lane, who is upward of seventy years of age, is possessed of a large estate and resides at No. 174 Carlion avenue. The printioners are the children of the alleged funct.—Emeline
E. Brower, wite of J. C. Brower, and Mary C.
Lane. They state in their pertition that their mother, who has not two strokes of paralysis within two years, and mastern giving away large sums of money, is incompare of managing her estate. The commissioner.—Mesars. Horice Graves, John G. Law and Dr.
Corey—after taking testimony in the case, closed the examination, and she jury rendered a version granting the petition.

CHARLES KAVANAGH'S TRIAL. THE CASE IN THE HANDS OF THE JURY-

JUDGE SCUDDER'S CHARTE. The defence in the case of Charles Kavanagh, who The delence in the case of Charles Kayanagh, who has been on trial at Freehold, N. J., for the past lew days on a charge of arone, closed yesterday after calling several witnesses, who testifled that the character of the accused was above repreach, while that of the Hynes brothers, the principal witnesses against him, was very bad. Judge Beckman then summed up for the delence and Mr. Charles Haight for the State.

JUDGE SCUDDER'S CHARGE.

Judge Scudder charged the jury. He first read severai sections of the law governing the purishment of the crime of arson, and said that in such crimes there was a principal and accessory before the fact, and that there should not be a conviction on the first count. "If a conviction stall," he said, "it should be for

After receiving the judge's charge the jury were sent to the jury room at hall-past two P. M. Three hours later they were called in by Judge Scudder, who instructed them to bring in a scaled vertict in case they should agree before Monday morning, when he would return from Trentob, where he was going.

Up to a late hour last night the jury had not agreed upon a verdict.

EMMA BETHEL'S CASE.

ON TRIAL FOR POISONING RECHLEITH BISHOP.

CAMDEN, May 25, 1878.

The trial of Emma Bethet for the merder by poison of Rechierth Bishop, her second alleged victim, was continued this merning in the Court of Oyer and Ter-miner, Judge Woodhull presiding. Prolessor Stephens, of Girard College, Philadelphia, was called to the stand to testily as an expert as to the results of a chemical analysis of the stemach and liver of the deceased. His evidence was the same so on the former trials, ex-cept that there was not arrante enough found, so he admitted, on cross-examination, to make death a cer-cianty. The other witnesses were the same as on the other trial. The Court adjourned before all the testi-mony was in.

BAPID TRANSIT.

Corporation Councel DeWitt, to whom was referred Council to authorize the use of steam on the lower end of Atlantic avenue and other matters relative to that subject, rendered an opinion yesterday. He contends that the Adjermen have no power to grant raitroad franchises on Atlantic avenue. "No general power," he says, "to grant franchises to use the public streets for raitroad purposes has ever been conferred upon the Common Council in general the only essential part which a municipality of this State has in the granting of raitroad rights in public streets is to consent to such raitroad rights in public streets is to consent to such raitroad rights in public streets is to consent to such raitroad case. The rights of the old Jamsica Raitroad Company in Atlantic avenue, competent for the Legislature to permit a renewal of the old raitroad uses. The right to use sleam depends on the final solution of the various questions raised and now in lingation respecting the extent of present raitroad rights in the avenue. These questions aside, an incorporated company, with the censent of the Common Council, could acquire the right to use sleam motors on the avenue." end of Atlantic avenue and other matters relative to committees to send in their lists of inspectors of elec-tion before the lat of June. Under the law both par-ties are compelled to jurnish this list to the Poince Commissioners before the middle of August, A dis-cipling committee was appointed to inquire into the conditions of the general committee from the Twenty-third ward. Some routine business was then trans-noted, when the committees adjourned.

ALDERMANIC CAUCUSES.

The Tammany Aldermon were in caucus yesterda and the day before relative to the pending vacancies in the Police and Excise departments. Various ru-more have been floating around the City Hall for some more have been floating around the City Hall for some time us to the conclusions arrived at in those gatherings, but the City Fathers were particularly reticent on the subject. It feaked on, however, that instructions had been given to confirm Mr. William Colligan as Excise Commissioner at the next meeting of the Board. This appearament is made on the ground that the Fourth senatorial district—being the banner democratic headquarters of the eity—is entitled the additional patronge, the locality being overlooked in this connection for some time past. A bitch has evidently ari en as to flifting the pieces of Poilos Commissioners Exharit and Wheeler. Ne positive action was taken upon these appointments, as the slate was not yet made out upon these office.
